

MDM&C Update

March 17, 2020

MDM&C's Current COVID-19 Status

Dear MDM&C Clients and Business Associates,

You can be assured that we have been taking every precaution to ensure the health and safety of our employees and clients during this unprecedented period of disruption in our community, our nation and around the world.

To reduce the potential for infection, a majority of our attorneys and associates will be working remotely for the foreseeable future. Although a few staff members will be present in all our offices, those facilities will not be open for business purposes.

If there is any saving grace in all this turmoil, it's that our firm -- like most of the business world -- has operated successfully by phone, email, video-conferencing and other technologies for a very long time. And for that reason, our firm is now and will remain fully operational to address our clients' needs.

Although we do not yet understand or fully appreciate the long-term impact of this crisis, in terms of how it may change our daily lives, we remain confident in the capabilities and fortitude of our professionals to adapt to any new challenges and opportunities that our clients will face.

If you have questions or concerns regarding this notice or the current status of our work on your behalf, or if we can be of assistance in any other way, I encourage you to contact your attorney directly.

During difficult times, we're reminded of the things that are most important in life: family, friends and relationships. We thank you for the trust you've placed in us in the past, and we pledge to do our very best to get through this crisis together.

Stay safe and healthy.
