McElroy Deutsch

Intellectual Property

Covering all aspects of intellectual property, patent & trademark law

McElroy Deutsch's intellectual property lawyers and trademark attorneys advise clients on all aspects of trademark availability, clearance and right-to-use, and registration in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, including selecting marks, applying for and obtaining registrations, and enforcing such registrations. Our IP attorneys also advise clients on the protection and registration of domain names and domain name enforcement, as well as the resolution of trademark and domain name disputes. We obtain copyright protections for businesses through registration processes with the Copyright Office and documentary protections.

The Firm's attorneys defend clients against third-party allegations of potential infringement related to intellectual property use, and represent clients in enforcing their intellectual property by pursuing infringers.

Our intellectual property lawyers represent clients in securing trade secret protections for confidential business assets, negotiating non-disclosure agreements and inventions, ownership agreements, and intellectual property ownership issues with independent contractors. Our team assists clients in negotiating and drafting licensing, distribution and transfer agreements.

The Firm's Intellectual Property law practice extends to the following areas:
