

McElroy Deutsch

Real Estate

McElroy Deutsch's real estate practice represents clients in all aspects of real estate development, transactions, and litigation. Our highly experienced real estate lawyers represent developers, investors, lenders, and business users in the acquisition, development, financing, sale, and leasing of real estate. Much of our real estate law practice also involves representing lending institutions and financing groups, as well as borrowers, in a large variety of commercial loans, including commercial mortgage loans, asset-based loans, ground-lease financings, and construction loans. Our real estate lawyers provide seamless, strategic and efficient service to our real estate industry clients and in turn, they meet their business objectives and exceed their expectations.
